Focus on Training Facilitation

Brian Washburn has been designing and delivering learning programs for 18 years, getting his start as a Peace Corps Volunteer in Paraguay. In 2011, Training magazine named him one of their "top young trainers." Brian has facilitated workshops on presentation skills and instructional design to audiences in North America, South America, Asia, Africa and the Middle East. Excerpts from his Train Like a Champion blog have been used in two recent books published on the topic of learning and development. Brian is the co-founder and CEO of Endurance Learning, whose vision is that every presentation can be engaging and lead to change. Brian's sole purpose in life is to eliminate boring learning experiences from the face of the planet.
